The fall session of the Lethbridge Presbytery of the United church will be held in Blairmore on Wednesday next, September the 26th, at 3.15 p.m., when Rev. Dr. Thomas Powell and other noted speakers will be present.

ST. LUKE'S, BLAIRMORE

Sunday School at 10.15 a.m. every Sunday.

Service Sunday, September 23rd—Holy Communion at 11.15 a.m.

Service Sunday, September 30th—Evensong at 7 p.m.

Mr. A. C. Plummer, president of the International Coal & Coke Company, Limited, Coleman, who is a pioneer in the development of the steam coal areas of the Crow's Nest Pass, and who took a very active part in the early history of Coleman, was the guest this week of General Manager Whiteside. He was very pleased to note the substantial development being made in the mines and also the progress of the town, which he had always felt a great pride in. He resides in Vancouver, where he is interested in a number of large corporations, besides other large concerns in the Dominion.

PTHIAN SISTERS BAZAAR

Greenhill Temple No. 10, Pythian Sisters, will hold their annual bazaar and sale of home cooking in the Lodge Hall on Wednesday, November 21st. Please keep this date in mind.

AT THE UNITED CHURCH

The United church was crowded on Sunday night last for the annual Harvest Thanksgiving service. The choir appeared at full strength and rendered appropriate anthems, while an able discourse was delivered by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Smith, B.D. On Monday evening, the annual harvest supper was served by the ladies of the church, when nearly three hundred partook of the good things provided.

Following the supper, an auction sale of fruits, vegetables, poultry, etc., was conducted, with Mr. S. G. Bannan as the very capable auctioneer. Good prices were realized for the articles sold, the record being five cents paid by a Scotch lady for twenty-four cookies and a dollar-fifty by an anti-Scotch for twenty cents' worth of apples, oranges and grapes.

Cut flowers were also disposed of at good prices.

Blairmore should join in the general protest being raised throughout the province against juvenile car drivers. In this connection, various communications, anonymous and otherwise, have appeared both in the daily and weekly press, taking strong objection to young children being allowed to drive automobiles. The provincial highway traffic act stipulates that children under sixteen years shall be forbidden to drive cars and the police, in the interest of the travelling public, should see that the law in this respect is strictly adhered to.

The C.P.R. has offered $22,000,000 for Alberta's northern railways.

SCHOOL BOARD EMPLOYEES NEW TRUANT OFFICER

At a special meeting of the Blairmore Board of School Trustees on Tuesday evening, William Duncan, town police, was appointed truant officer at a salary of $120, duties to commence September 16th.

The minutes of previous meeting were read and discussed and the organization of the school as effected by Principal McPherson was approved.

On the recommendation of Mr. McPherson, the board decided to ask Miss Cox to take over Art I. subject for one half hour three times a week, and that she be relieved in Grade VI. work for that time by Mrs. Fleming, both to receive extra remuneration for the added duties.

Owing to the large number of subjects being taught in high school and the short hours of the afternoon session, the board decided to eliminate the afternoon recess for high school.

Secretary was instructed to order one 18-inch globe and a new map of the British Empire; also to submit a list of heavy supplies necessary to local dealers for tender.

The board also decided to continue the practice adopted several years ago of supplying orphan children with text books and other equipment gratis. Particularly was this to apply to Miss Crowder, who has taken up Grade XII. studies at Coleman.

The next regular meeting of the board will be held on Friday night, September the 28th.

We have to compliment Mrs. Edwards, editor of the Pincher Creek Echo, upon the very excellent appearance of last week's issue of that paper, designed to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the advent of the R.N.W.M.P. in the district. Very lengthy accounts of the early activities of the Royal North West Mounted Police by pioneers and a story by John Herron, former member of the "Red Riders of the Plains," are contained in this issue, making it valuable for historical data and as a souvenir.

FEDERAL COAL

We have arranged to get a supply of the above coal from Lethbridge, which has been recommended to us as being among the best grades in that field, and can sell it at a reasonable price. Please place your orders now, as we wish to get a car in as soon as possible.

COWLEY HAPPENINGS

Threshing will be general this week and some record turnouts are expected.

Misses Phyllis and Kathleen Porter are attending high school at Pincher Creek.

Joseph Hamelin, old-time resident, was a Cowley visitor on Monday. Joe was night telegraph operator here twenty years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Iredale stopped off to renew old acquaintances here on Monday, enroute to Warner, Alberta. They have resided for some time at Port Angeles, Wash.

Another landmark has been removed from our midst, in the person of Mr. Henry Jackson, who died on Friday in the Holy Cross hospital at Calgary, to which place he went for treatment but a few days before his death, following an illness of several months. The remains were brought to Cowley on Monday morning's train. A short service was held in the Anglican church, Cowley, from whence the funeral proceeded to the Livingstone church, where the funeral service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Blunt, of Pincher Creek. The remains

SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. G. C. HENDERSON

Magistrate George Garrie Henderson dropped dead from heart failure about 9.30 this morning. He was just preparing to go on a hunting trip with his two sons, Stuart and George, the latter having arrived a few days ago to spend some holidays with his father.

Deceased was a native of Scotland, having been born in Aberdeen, and came to Canada when still a child with his parents. He learned the printing trade in Sarnia and later worked in Forest and Paisley. In the latter town he married Mary Crow, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Crow.

In 1890 he moved to Vancouver, where for a short time he was foreman on the Vancouver World. About 1896 he went to Vernon, where he established the Vernon News, which he published until 1898 when he sold out to McCreedy and Ball. Towards the end of 1898 he came to Fernie, joining in from Jennings, Morneau, on one of the old Kootenay ferry boats as far as Wardner. In January, 1899, he established the Fernie Free Press, which he operated for two years, selling out in 1901 to the present owner. He then moved back to the old town of Sarnia again, where he resided for six or seven years, but after the big fire in 1908, which destroyed a large block he owned here, he again located in Fernie and has lived here ever since.

During his residence in Fernie he has occupied several prominent positions. He was Customs Officer for several years, Mayor for four years and at the time of his death was magistrate of the city. He also occupied the position of inspector of the district home bank and worked hard to recover the monies lost in that institution.

Deceased was a keen sportsman and seldom missed a year when he did not take a hunting trip.

During the latter few years he had suffered the loss of a dear wife, a daughter and his eldest son Jack, and the sorrow and trouble no doubt contributed toward his death by heart trouble, from which he had suffered for many years. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Ironsides, of Calgary, and two sons, Stuart, of Fernie, and George (Pete), of Dayton Ohio.—Fernie Free Press of Friday Sept. 14.

Funeral was held on Monday afternoon of this week, from the family residence and under full Masonic rites, deceased being a prominent member of the Order. Places of business were closed during the funeral by order of the acting mayor and citizens and members of all city departments attended, paying tribute to one who always displayed a keen interest in community matters.

SALESMAN DRAWS THREE MONTHS

Percy J. Simpson, travelling salesman for the Union Packing Company in this district, was arrested at Calgary on Monday on charges laid by the management of the company of theft of funds totalling in the neighborhood of $350. On Tuesday, in police court at Calgary, he pleaded guilty to the charges laid and was sentenced by Magistrate Saunders to serve three months in Lethbridge jail.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Frank Lote, who was killed at Hillcrest, Alberta, September 19th, 1926.

"Two years have passed since that day,
God called the one we loved away.
Forget him, no, we never will,
For in our hearts he liveth still.
The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought the end so near;
And only those who've lost can tell,
The pain of parting without farewell."
Ever remembered by his loving wife and family.

A WONDERFUL TRIBUTE

Baby's Own Tablets Declared To Be Worth Their Weight In Gold

A mother has only to use Baby's Own Tablets once to be convinced that nothing else could equal them in banishing the ills of her little ones. Once used, always used, as long as there are small children in the home—that is the tribute thousands of mothers pay the Tablets.

Among the many, many mothers who are anxious to tell of their experience with Baby's Own Tablets is Mrs. Griffith of East Hamilton, Ont., who writes: "Shortly after coming to Canada I began giving the Tablets to my baby boy who was then six weeks old. The result was so pleasing that since that time I have always kept the Tablets in my home. I have two children now and both of them are the picture of health. Baby's Own Tablets are the only medicine they have ever had and I really believe the Tablets to be worth their weight in gold."

Baby's Own Tablets are free from all injurious drugs and can be given to the youngest babe with absolute safety. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HE DIDN'T THINK DYSENTERY COULD BE RELIEVED

Mr. John Melling, Fessler, Alta., writes: "I am a returned soldier, and when I came home from overseas I suffered greatly with dysentery. The doctor said it was chronic and did not think it could be relieved. However, I decided to try a little more, and I did not know. One day the doctor asked me if I had ever tried

"On his recommendation I bought a bottle and after I had taken it got some relief, so I got two more, and have never had the dysentery since."

Farmers' Marketing Tour

Canadian National Railways Tour To Great Britain and Denmark, 1928

Historically speaking the Glasgow Town Hall is a comparatively recent building in the Victorian Renaissance style, and the hall in which we were entertained is lofty, airy and in its sheer spaciousness magnificent. Three beautiful wall paintings command attention, one depicting the legend of King Roderick and St. Mungo, the representation of which is still part of the City's coat of arms; a second a Glasgow scene of the Middle Ages, and it was interesting to note that in this scene was portrayed a Clydesdale, although the period covered is about 1500. The third is the Lutanian on the stocks of the Clyde before her completion. For all its comparative modernity, the banqueting hall can boast a history. Queen Victoria, King Edward, Queen Alexandra, King George, Queen Mary, and the Prince of Wales have dined in it. Every Prime Minister of Great Britain since 1858 has been the guest of the City there; and in July, 1914, three weeks before the war, the German burgomasters had been entertained there at the banquet of the City and Scotland. Only two towns were honored. "The King" and "The Kaiser," and the German and British National Anthems were sung. Soon after the burgomasters had been hurrying home, their trip cut short by the outbreak of the Great War.

Sir David Mason and the Corporation entertained us in characteristic Scottish style. The haggis was piped in to the tune of "Happy We've Been at the Giltner" by the City of Glasgow Police Band, at the end of which ceremony the chairman proffered Pipe Major Gray the time-honored refreshment, acknowledgement by the Pipe Major with the traditional response, "Thanks and a health to your" spoken in Gaelic.

A little secret history attaches to the fine new leopard skin which was worn by the Pipe Major for the first time and in our honor. It appeared that circumstances had compelled the Corporation to waive the economy axe, and in doing so, they had decided to cut out one pair of trousers from the annual outfit of uniformed city officers. It was proposed to spend twenty guineas on a leopard skin for the Pipe Major, but this would hardly have done in view of the incident of the trousers. Happily, however, the difficulty was overcome by a public-spirited citizen who presented the City with a properly mounted skin.

There were two musical programs. Gaelic airs, marches, strathspeys and reels by the pipe band and selection by the City of Glasgow Police Orchestra who honored us by playing Canadian songs and dances. Glasgow indeed entertained us royally.

We spent our afternoon watching a football match as guests of the Corporation and thoroughly enjoyed the experience.

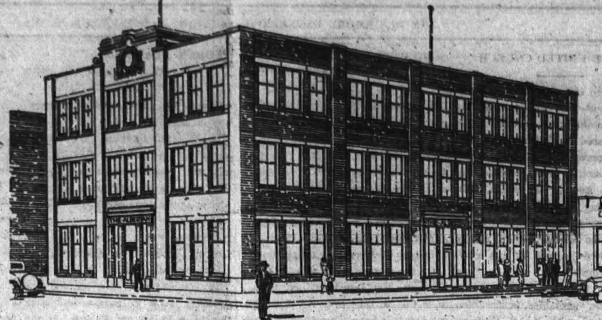

The European part of our official programme was now over and there was one unscheduled event for which the party was responsible. We had almost completed a wonderful tour. We had seen more in thirty-two days than perhaps any party of the same size had ever seen. We had seen money was no key, had been thrown open to us. Privileges jealously guarded by the Glasgow Police Orchestra who honored us by playing Canadian songs and dances. Glasgow indeed entertained us royally.

When we had responded to the "judge" himself was placed in the dock and was presented with a letter and a gold watch engraved with an inscription: the party's tribute to the manner in which he had carried out the duties of the position as leader in which we had elected him. Mr. Arkel had responded to the speeches of the guests on a grand occasion, but never had he found his task of replying so difficult as he did this night. The occasion was with the surprise we had secretly prepared.

These were not all we thanked. There was Mr. Dan Johnson, European Colonization Manager for the Canadian National Railways; "Brownie" (Mr. E. W. Brown), Mr. Johnson's assistant whose stories we shall never forget, especially the impromptu "How Do You Do" song which pilloried members of our party; Mr. Frank England, Mr. Weir's assistant, who, in the interests of Canada, saw that we were interviewed and photographed everywhere we went; and Miss Roberts, Mr. Weir's secretary, who was always ready to type our letters however pressed with urgent work.

Another song from "Brownie" the "Auld Lang Syne," the last verse sung with arms crossed and hands clasped concluded a happy evening. Sunday found us perhaps a little stum, for quite a number of our party was remaining to visit friends or relations. We had found that Canadians are Canadians wherever they are, whatever Province they come from; and it was with sincere regret that we parted at Greenock from those who stayed behind. We were not the last in the oncoming night. Let us live the Homeland: now for HOME.

THE CHRISTIAN BASIS OF TOTAL ABSTINENCE

Golden Text: "Let no man seek his own, but each his neighbor's good." 1 Corinthians 13:24. Lesson: 1 Corinthians 8:1-13. Devotional Reading: Romans 14:18-21.

Explanations and Comments Paul had been asked in a letter from the Corinthian Church whether or not one might eat meat which had first been offered to idols. The idol was not a real god, it did not matter if the food had been offered to it. The writers doubtless wished to be known as "the party which stood for liberty of conscience, and probably for the Pauline axiom, 'All things are lawful to me.' Paul's answer follows in this eighth chapter.

Mottratt's version of Paul's words makes them so clear that explanations are unnecessary: "With regard to food that has been offered to idols. Here, of course, 'all we possess knowledge!' Knowledge puffs up, love builds up. Whoever imagines he has attained to some degree of knowledge, does not possess the true knowledge; but if anyone loves God, he is known of Him. Well, then, with regard to food that has been offered to idols, I am quite aware that there is no such thing as an idol in the world; and that 'there is only one God.' (So-called gods are idols, but in heaven or on earth—as indeed there are plenty of them, both gods and 'lords'—but for us there is one God, the Father, from whom all comes, and for whom we exist.) But remember, it is not everyone who has this 'knowledge.' Some who have hitherto been accustomed to idols eat the food as food which has been really offered to an idol, and so their weaker conscience is contaminated. Now more food will not bring us any nearer to God; if we stain we do not lose anything, and if we eat we do not gain anything, but see that the exercise of your right does not prove any stumbling block to the weak. Suppose anyone sees you, a person of enlightened mind, reclining at meat beside an idol's temple, will that really 'fortify his weak conscience?' Will it not embolden him to violate his scruples of conscience by eating food that has been offered to idols? He is ruined, this weak man, ruined by your 'enlightened mind.' His brother for whose sake Christ died! By staining against the brotherhood in this way and wounding their weaker conscience, you are sinning against Christ. Therefore, if food is any hindrance to my brother's welfare, sooner than injure him, I will never eat flesh as long as I live, never!

CHAPTER I.—Continued.

"Good-bye old pal," Donald whined, his arms about the collar's shaggy neck. The dog turned slowly and unwillingly toward the house. In the meantime, within the house, John McLean and his wife were discussing the possible result of the father's seeming severity.

"Donald is a great trial to us now, John," said the mother, "but we must not forget the happiness he has brought us in the past." She gazed long and lovingly at a photograph of her son as a child; then, with head bowed, her lips moved in silent prayer.

Upon his arrival at the wharf Donald found his baggage, destroyed the pass he had been in the habit of using, as his father was owner of the steamboat line, and bought a ticket to Bangor.

Reaching Bangor, he chose less expensive quarters than his custom, peering at the Penobscot, on Exchange Street, in no mood for sleep, he decided to take a stroll. Outside an all-night restaurant was a long string of cars, and from within came the sound of happy laughter.

A feeling of loneliness, coupled with a slight hunger induced him to enter. A big man sitting at the counter, attacking vigorously a T-bone steak, was the centre of interest, as evidenced by the cluster of taxi-drivers and other night-birds about him. He wore a wide-brimmed hat, high leather boots, corduroy trousers, a fine flannel shirt, and a red-mackinaw coat hung on the wall behind him. Blood, sun-washed hair stood up on his head aggressively, and his fleshy blue eyes were set in a face lapped a brick red.

"Yes, sir," spoke the blond giant between mouthfuls, "she's a he-man's country, she is. None of your bum chow that I used to get here in these Eastern loggin' camps, sow-belly and beans three times a day, and washin' in for forty dollars a month from daylight until dark. No, street! Me for the Coast with its four buxks a day. And talk about grub! Say, there ain't any hotel that puts up better scotch than we get in the loggin' camps in good old B.C."

He looked around at his audience and, convinced that they were interested, he continued: "Yes, sir! British Columbia for mine. Say! What'd you think of three fir logs that makes a carload? Of cooah! Ten feet through? Of olders that you can't get your arms round? Some different than them toothpicks you got out there," jerking his thumb contemptuously toward the Penobscot River.

"And minerals," he went on, "rise mountains are filled with 'em—miles and miles that ain't never bin prospected. Prospectors comin' in every day with new strides. And talk about nah! I seen the fish so thick they choked the rivers. You could darn near walk on their backs. That's the country, fella. That's the place for men with gut-up-and-git."

He finished his repeat with a gulp of coffee, fished a sack of tobacco and brown paper from his pocket, and rolled a cigarette. "A brand new country, he ran on, his eyes shining with enthusiasm, "that ain't half explored yet, and richer 'n a pall of cream. How much do I owe you, boy?" he asked as he drew out a wad of bank notes, peeled a bill from the outside of the fat roll and threw it carelessly on the counter.

"Keep the change," he said with a lordly air, then swaggered down the door. Several of the taxi-drivers followed, loudly importuning him to ride.

Donald finished his lunch and sat for a time smoking.

"That guy was a nut to flash his poke in front of that gang," observed the waiter, "Guess he's big enough to take care of himself," he added.

As Donald stepped out of the restaurant he saw the big man across the street with four of his former audience. From the shadow of a doorway he saw the party enter a ramshackle building, after hearing one of them promise to get the Westerner a drink in spite of prohibition. Donald decided to walk by the place, and was startled by the sound of crashing glass and indications of a struggle.

"You will, will you?" he heard the unmistakable voice of the big Westerner.

With a bound Donald was at the door. He found the Westerner badly battered, but holding three men at bay. The fourth lay in a crumpled heap in the corner.

Only one of the men noticed Donald's entrance. He was a big, burly brute with the swarthy features of the Southern European, and he came straight for the intruder, crouching low. Donald's leg had caught him by the eye, and as his head flew back Donald crossed viciously with his right. The blow landed with his right, that sounded like a cleaver sinking into a meat block, and the man dropped as though shot.

A fall-foot man, standing near a side door, with a bottle in his hand, about a warning as Donald sprang to the Westerner's assistance. Both men turned their heads. The hairy fist of the big blond giant struck the lawyer of the two men such a terrific blow on the side of the head that the recipient whirled completely around and sank dazedly to the floor.

"Duck!" yelled Donald, as he saw the little man's arm go back. The Westerner dropped, and not a second too soon. The bottle whizzed over his head, bringing a shower of plaster from the wall where it struck. With a curse the big man turned, but the little bottle-thrower had disappeared through the side door. The remaining thing, a tall, cadaverous looking youth, took one wild look round, then bolted through the front door.

The Westerner, gasping and rather pale, seized Donald's hand in his huge paw. "Faster, you saved me from a hell of a lickin'! 'Bout two minutes more and—"

"Grab your coat and hat and we'll get out of here before the police come," interrupted Donald.

They went through the alley to Hammond Street, then down Exchange Street.

"Better come up to my room and have these cuts attended to," suggested Donald.

The Westerner touched gingerly the rapidly swelling lump over his ear. "You know," he observed, "those fella never intended to start a rough-house. The little dip was pretty slick, but I caught him with his hand in my pocket, and when they saw that they had a fight in their hands, they tried to lay me out with a bitly. Should have seen the funny look on that little rat's face when he jammed me with that loaded stick and I didn't go down. Guess this old bean of mine must run pretty heavy to bone," he finished with a chuckle. He looked at Donald curiously. "You sure handed it to that big dog quick. How did you horn in on the row anyway?"

Donald told of being in the lunch-room when he had displayed his money, and of the waiter's subsequent remarks.

"Huh!" snorted the big man disgustedly. "Guess I need a guardmen." With the assistance of the waiter, night-clerk, who furnished antiseptic and court plaster, they patched the hurts of the much-bruised Westerner.

"When the clerk left the room the big man turned to Donald. 'My name's Jack Gills. What's yours?'"

"Donald McLean."

"Damn good name," he averred, looking Donald over critically.

"I bin visitin' my old home in Nova Scotia," he ran on. "Come down here to visit my sister. I'm gittin' homesick for the Pacific slope, and I'm goin' to hit for B.C. tomorrow mornin'."

"I'm on my way to Vancouver," said Donald.

The effect of this statement on Gills was electric. "Do you belong in B.C.?" he questioned excitedly.

Donald told him how his glowing description of that land of promise had induced him to go West, and that this would be his first visit to the Coast.

"Well," observed Gills, "I've been the means of addin' a big man like you to the population of B.C., then Jack Gills has done some good."

"That's a real compliment," smiled Donald.

"I'm goin' on the mornin' train," remarked Gills. "I'd like to have you travel with me."

Donald nodded.

Canada Wants No Shirkers

Lord Advocate For Scotland Says There Is No Place For Whiners Here

Canada is no place for "whiners," the Rt. Hon. H. P. Macmillan, Lord Advocate for Scotland, said in an address to the Victoria Canadian Club in referring to the troubles over imported English mine workers for the prairie harvest fields.

"I should like those who came to this country to read a little of Canadian history and understand some of the hardships faced by the pioneers here, by their womenfolk and their children to develop and settle this country," Mr. Macmillan said.

"Workers who come across here and whine and complain of hardships don't know that they are born. This is no country for whiners. It would never have progressed as it has unless the people who came here, and their fathers and some of you yourselves, had been willing to endure hardships."

"The man who comes here can't expect to land on a down pillow at once, but must face the spirit of the new land. Canada wants no shirkers."

"And I am sure those who come here, and are willing to work and pioneer will be treated in the right spirit as they always have been; and am satisfied from what I have learned and seen on my way across, that among you those who merit a welcome will receive it."

Music Was Wedding Gift

Carried By Radio and Telephone From Switzerland To Manchester, Mass.

Ernest Schelling, renowned pianist, sat in his villa at Celigny, Switzerland, and played wedding music which was heard at Manchester, Mass., U.S.A., by guests at the wedding of Miss Anne Helen Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl P. Bennett of Boston and Manchester, and William Chase Paulson, of Santa Barbara, Cal.

The music, which was carried a distance of approximately 4,000 miles by telephone and radiotelephone, was the wedding gift of the pianist who is an intimate friend of the bride's father.

The ceremony took place at 5 o'clock, and 6:15, during the reception, the telephone brought to the Bennett drawing room the strains of Schelling's wedding march. This was followed for half an hour by the music was conveyed from Switzerland, to London by telephone, thence by radio to Boston, where it was relayed to Manchester.

Chinese Habits and Customs

Everything Is Done Directly Opposite To Western Style

When two Chinamen meet they shake hands with themselves, not with each other. The chief topic of their conversation is food. The boys in China have girls' names and wear earrings; the men fly kites and play marbles; the women wear trousers. Chinese ships have no keels; the roses no scent. Books are read from the back forward and from the right to left. A Chinaman scratches his foot instead of his head when he is puzzled. He can divorce his wife for infidelity. He never quits a job, but gets a fave of absence and forgets to return.

A Chinaman's dinner starts with dessert and ends with soup. He plays more for suit than for beef. Most of his money is made of brass. All domestic servants in China are men. They never talk back to their employers. When invited out to dinner a Chinaman takes a servant along with him to help at table. Should the invited one be forced to remain at home through illness the dinner is sent to him. Chinese who can afford it boil their fish in wine. And, if they are rich enough to do so, use silver toothpicks. All beverages are served piping hot in China. John Chinaman inhales freely of cups that inebriate, but is seldom seen in an intoxicated condition.

Rub It In For Lame Back.—A brisk rub with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil will relieve lame back. The skin will immediately absorb the oil and it will penetrate the tissues and bring speedy relief. Try it and be convinced. As the liniment sinks in the pain comes out, and there are ample grounds for saying that it is an excellent article.

Learned His Lesson.—"Lots of reading on it," he observed, as he perused the text of the bond application with great interest.

"Huh!" remarked the clerk with the paper. "I'll bet you didn't read your marriage license that carefully."

"Maybe not," was the reply, but ever since I signed that I'm reading everything."

Teeth and Health

Issued By The Canadian Dental Hygiene Council and Published By The Saskatchewan Dental Society

THE WISDOM TOOTH

Otherwise the third molar, the word "Wisdom" being of no real significance excepting as it relates to the period of eruption which is at the approach of adult age.

Perhaps you have seen your good fortune not to have had this tooth erupt, for in truth, it is often a trouble bearer; it is the dental "degenerative"—generally situated in size, but frequently absent altogether—but why mislead you?

This—the gradual lessening of the function of mastication and the reduction of the force of jaw movement—leads to the development of softer and less gritty foods by civilized man, has led to a marked degeneracy of the dental mechanism.

So that, through economy of growth, due to disease, the tooth erupts into position—a condition analogous to that of the eyeless fish of the Mammoth Cave—Nature cutting off that which goes unused.

Just a word more: Occasionally the unnatural retention of this tooth in the jaw—so-called "impaction," leads to serious disturbances, neuralgic pains, local infection, or constitutional ill. So when your physician, finding no specific cause for your general ill health, orders that "impacted" wisdom removed, you will better understand the reason.

But don't worry should the wisdom teeth not erupt—the chances are that you have been spared trouble.

Chief Buffalo Child Long Lance

Talented Western Canadian Is Author Of New Book, Called "Long Lance"

A man of magnificent presence came to the office of Cosmopolitan Book Corporation last year and asked questions on the technique of writing a book. He was not seen around the Cosmopolitan offices again for about a year. Then he returned with a complete manuscript, left it silently, and was gone again.

The next day the manuscript was circulating around the office, page by page, and being avidly read by half a dozen people at once.

The author was Buffalo Child Long Lance, a chief of the Blood Band of the Blackfoot Indians. He had written how as a boy he suffered the tortures of training as a warrior and was educated in the teachings of medicine men and wrinkled old braves. He had told the stories of a babyhood on horseback of buffalo-hunting, bloody fighting, awesome "medicine," of capturing wild horses, of war and peace, sun dances and happy feasts.

Now a college graduate and an appointee by President Wilson to West Point; a hero of the World War, and a most charming personality, Chief Long Lance turned up as a literary man of a high order.

The book was a rare contribution to American literature. The publishers prevailed on him to let the book be called "Long Lance."

Chief Buffalo Child Long Lance is a most extraordinary personality. More than thirty years ago he was born an ordinary Indian baby of the western plains in what is now Alberta. To tell of his boyhood before the Blackfoot Indians signed a treaty and went to the reservation would take the edge off his amazing book.

All in our Father's house at last.

So long as our existence lasts, we must not give up the duty of cheerfulness and hope. He who has guided us through the day, will guide us through the night also. Room Was Too Small

An angler was describing to his friend a salmon he had caught.

"How big was it?"

"Biggest salmon you ever saw," said the sportsman.

"But that doesn't explain much to me," argued his friend. "The only salmon I ever saw was in a can. Measure with your hands to give me an idea."

The angler glanced at the walls of the room.

"All right," he said, "but we'll have to go outdoors to do it."

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them, but you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria.

No sooner does than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhoea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

(By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee Oklahoma)

That advertising is the "first aid to business."

That advertising is the shortest, quickest route to better business; it is a builder of business.

That advertising speaks to everybody, not to just a few people.

That advertising tells about a business and does it right now.

That advertising goes into every home and is a constant reminder of what is best to buy.

That advertising creates suggestions and makes sales.

That advertising tells the world what you already know about your business.

That advertising is news of general interest to the world.

That advertising tells of the best merchandise and service and where to buy it.

Business concerns that cater to the wants of the public advertise.

Advertising is an essential part of every business for which there is no substitute.

ANOTHER ARGUMENT IN FAVOR OF HOME PATRONAGE

A few days ago we happened to notice in a store in this district stationery printed in a city office. The job was intended to represent embossing, and honestly, a better job could have been had if the paper had been spread on the rails for a G.P.R. engine to travel over. The paper material also was of the cheapest quality, much better quality being used as wrapping paper in some of our stores. No doubt, the price was nice cheap, but that could have been a whole lot cheaper. This is not all, for the moral effect of that class of stuff on the firm's business and standing can never be estimated.

USE DECENT LANGUAGE

There are some young men of this town, and some from the country, too, who have the bad habit of not trying to control their language while on the streets of the town. This is especially noticed on Saturday nights when the streets are crowded. Ladies passing groups of young men are usually forced to listen to a flow of filth cursing that would make one's ears burn. To say the least, any young man who uses such language on the streets where ladies can hear him, or any place else for that matter, are from from being gentlemen and their names should be given to the police.—Exchange.

Montreal.—A big one in Canadian trans-Atlantic passenger history, has been inaugurated in Montreal, where the fine new liner "Duchess of Bedford" docked recently. The new 20,000 ton vessel, the largest to ascend the St. Lawrence to Montreal, is the first of four cabin class water ships of the new "Duchess" type, which will supplement the Canadian Pacific's trans-Atlantic and winter cruise services. Speakers at the banquet held on board on arrival in Montreal after her maiden voyage eulogized the occasion as an event of national significance.

The Feast of St. John the Baptist, greatest of French Canadian religious spectacles, will be celebrated throughout the province of Quebec shortly. The Montreal baseball stadium, which will accommodate 25,000 persons, will be crowded by spectators of a French Canadian oratorio, to be followed by a spectacular fireworks display. On the Sunday afternoon, thirty floats, depicting French Canadian scenes, many bands, and over 10,000 singers and musicians, will come together in a procession several miles long through the streets of Montreal.

Origin of "Crows' Nest"

In connection with the controversy over name "Crows' Nest," we take pleasure in reproducing an article from the pen of Mr. F. W. Godsal, former resident of Cowley and pioneer of the Foot-hills district, and accompanying same with two snaps taken by Mr. Godsal, showing Crows' Nest Lake from the cave before the railway spoiled the scene and the cave at that time.

In connection with the article, Mr. Godsal states that according to W. S. Lee's evidence, the crows' nest should have been on Turtle

The Cave, Main Source of the Old Man River, Before the C.P.R. Entered the Crow.

Mountain and the Indians had never heard of a turtle, the name being given by Garnett brothers.

Mr. Godsal climbed to the summit of Crows' Nest Mountain in August, 1915.

The Herald article read: So much of our local history is bound up in place names that it is important that the correct origin is handed down to posterity. At least so thinks F. W. Godsal, one of Alberta's old timers, and as such an authority on Southern Alberta's place names as any pioneer living. In its issue of Friday, July 31, the Herald published in the daily item "What Do You Know About Canada?" an account of the origin of the Crows' Nest place name as follows:

"The place name of Crows' Nest Mountain is Southern Alberta in the Crows' Nest Pass is a translation of a Cree Indian name Kah-ka-oo-wah-tah-tun; does not commemorate the slaughter of Crow Indians by the Blackfoot when they got them in a witnesses and their evidence being conclusive. James White's book contains much valuable information, but on the origin of the place names "Crows' Nest" and "Turtle Mountain" he has gone astray, having been misled by his informant.

Mr. Godsal was acquainted a few years ago with two Peigan chiefs at Brocket, both of them men of about eighty, who actually took part in the combat between Blackfoot and Crow Indians that gave the mountain and pass that name. It seems, however, that the name was given to the wrong peak, as it was under Turtle mountain that the massacre took place. Mr. Godsal takes this from no second-hand source, as he himself pointed to Crow Mountain in interrogation and was told "No, that is not where we killed the Crows, but under that mountain," the chief indicating Turtle as he spoke. If further confirmation were needed, it could be obtained from Rev. W. B. Hastings, in charge of the Anglican mission at Brocket, corner or 'nest,' as set forth in local tradition, but merely the nesting of crows near the base of the peak. Name first appeared on the Palliser Expedition map. In a map accompanying Palliser's preliminary report, it is named Lodge des Corbeaux.

Frank Yeigh is the authority for the statement as given above, but Mr. Godsal writes the Herald to point out that although the same origin is given in James White's "Place Names of Southern Alberta," it is not founded on accurate information. Mr. Godsal's account of the origin of the name as sent some years ago to the Calgary Herald has been fully accepted by historical societies and the C.P.R. archivist as irrefutable, the

AN ALBERTA COLLEGE
WITH A STRIKING RECORD

Alberta College at Edmonton is observing its silver anniversary in October. It has had a striking growth. Starting off in a small way in 1903 it had a registration of over 1700 students this year. It began as a Methodist church institution and its founder was Rev. Dr. Buchanan, former superintendent of missions in Alberta. Today it is one of the educational institutions of the United church and its principal is Rev. Dr. F. Stacey McCall, who at one time labored as a missionary in the Crows' Nest Pass.

The cosmopolitan nature of the student body may be shown from the record of birth places of those registered. Students have come from every province of the Dominion, from England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, and from several of the British Dominions and dependencies, from every state of the United States, from Japan and China, and from over twenty countries of Continental Europe. During the past year thirty-five nationalities were represented in the student body of the college.

The college devotes itself to university preparatory work, and business and musical courses, and in its class is the most outstanding institution in Canada.—Lethbridge Herald.

Here and There

(107) Quebec, Quebec.—The most successful meeting of the Canad-an Seed Growers Association closed at the Chateau Frontenac on Saturday, June 16th, with a record demand for registered seed for all Canada, given as follows: Wheat, 77,913 bushels; oats, 56,815 bushels;
barley, 16,637 bushels; and alfalfa,
10,748 bushels.

Montreal, Quebec.—Fur prices have advanced since the early spring, as reflected in the three-day fur auction sale recently concluded here. Nearly 50,000 ermine pelts sold at 30 per cent above the level of the previous sale, with a top price of $13.50; mink was also up 20 per cent, with the highest sale at $46.50, while wolf pelts brought a ten per cent advance over the price level of early spring.

Canadian dinners in the Old Country are not considered complete without Canadian ice-cream for dessert. Thus, for the High Commissioner's annual dinner in London on July 29 two eight-gallon tubs of the delicacy were ordered and these were delivered by Canadian Pacific Express in ample time for the dinner. The same thing was done last October for a special Canadian dinner held at Manchester by the Canadian Trade Commissioner there.

Ottawa, Ontario.—By the end of the season 15 flying clubs will have been established throughout Canada, according to advices from the Air Board. A total of $119,000 is being spent by the Air Board this year in the promotion of these clubs for civilian flying. Clubs have already been established at Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton, Hal-
fax, Saskatoon, Regina, Moose Jaw, Edmonton, Victoria and Granby.
One at Halifax and another at London are about to enter the list.

Wool growing in Western Canada is increasing rapidly, according to W. W. Thomson, manager of the western branch of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers' Union.
Up to June 30th, he pointed out, four carloads of wool had left Regina for Western Ontario (for grading by Government authorities) as compared with one for the similar half year of 1922. This year's shipments represent 103,000 lbs., from 300 flocks in the province.

The mystic number "13" holds no terror to the Royal Order of Jesus, an organization within the Ismaelite Temple Shrine of Buffalo, who sailed on Friday the Thirteenth of July with thirteen members in their party, from Montreal for Liverpool. The party met for the first time on Friday the Thirteenth of each month at 6.15 in the afternoon, and is divided into courts of 13 members each.
The party of visitors sailed on the crack new Canadian Pacific liner
"Duchess of Bedford" in a group of Shrine members visiting the old world.

Won Her Way

Miss Kathleen Moore, distinguished Scottish dapper star, with the St. W. Beauty Cup, emblematic of the Highland dancing competition at the Vancouver Caledonian Games. Miss Moore also won a free trip to the Highland Gathering at Banff where she will appear in the competitions held during the festival between August 31 and September 2.

Bad Legs Read This! If You Have Varicose Veins

If you or any relative or friend are worried or suffer because of varicose veins, or bunions, the best advice that anyone in this world can give is to get a prescription that literally hundreds of people all over the country are using with complete satisfaction.
Simply ask your druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Emerald Oil and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins, rubbing gently upward and towards the heart as the blood in the veins flows that way. Soon you will notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are of normal size. Emerald Oil is a powerful, yet harmless germi-cide and results are guaranteed by all good druggists.

Five Braw Highland Lassies

They came from Vancouver with a number of others, all pupils of Miss Jean Gauld (centre), to enter the lists at the Banff Highland Gathering. They all had their ding and their acaan truibhann and sword dance too—to the tune of the pipe.

Tourist traffic to Saint John this season is the largest in its history, and so far is equal if not greater than during the whole of last season. Tourists started arriving earlier this spring, and have continued in much larger numbers than in other seasons.

Colonel Scott, who is successfully producing bullion at Baldwin, Arns, British Columbia, believes that the industry has a future. He has one acre under this production with drying, cleaning and storage sheds. He grows fifty-two varieties of bulbs and has about a quarter of a million bulbs on hand growing.

The Alberta Amateur Championships will take place shortly at Banff, Alberta, where the annual Highland Gathering and Scottish Musical Festival is being held from August 31 to September 2. An elaborate programme has been arranged of a Scottish character, many of the athletic contests being peculiar to that race, such as to-sing the caber and putting the shot.

Plans are reported to be on foot among sheep raisers to establish in Vancouver a wool grading centre similar to that functioning in Trenton, Ontario, where at present most of the wool business of Canada is conducted. An authority states this would probably have the result of increasing the returns to the producer from 25 to 50 per cent.

Although the automobile is sometimes said to be a rival to the railroad, it gives the latter a great deal of traffic. The number of freight cars used by the Canadian Pacific Railway for the transport of automobiles has doubled during the past five years, and the latest order of 300 new cars for the company has just been completely filled.

CRITICIZES MOVE TO BRING JOBLESS FROM BRITAIN

Toronto. — Immigration problems formed the chief subject of discussion at a session of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada. While there were few aspects of the immigration policy left untouched, the highlights of the session were the unqualified denunciation of the British mine-harvester movement and an address by Hon. Peter Heenan, in which the Minister of Labor dealt forcefully with the immigration question.

Mr. Heenan charged that there was a well-thought out campaign being conducted in Great Britain to stampede the Dominion government into bringing British unemployed to Canada by the shipload. The propaganda was motivated by the desire of certain interests in the old country to solve a political problem and encouraged by persons in Canada who wanted to flood the labor market and provide ten men for every job.

As an instance of the working of the scheme, the speaker said that advertisements in England were telling the people that coal miners were wanted in Canada at high wages when as a matter of fact there was a surplus of miners in every coal field in the Dominion.

"It's a lie," declared Mr. Heenan, "to say that the British unemployed don't want to work and are content to subsist on the dole. They want to work and so the false reports of lack of work and high wages in Canada are eagerly received."

"Canada ought to have something to say about this," he continued. "Canada ought to be past the stage where we can take up a paper and read calmly that a British magistrate has allowed a man convicted of a crime to go on suspended sentence if he migrates to Canada."

The Labor minister defended the movement of British miners to Canada for harvest labor, and pointed out that it was separate from immigration policy generally. "We know we could get men in other parts of the world," he said, "but the British government offered us 25,000 men, accustomed to hard manual work, and why should we turn down our own flesh and blood?"

Old Age Pensions Paid

Amount in B.C. Totalling $441,222 Up To June Last

Ottawa, Ont. — Old age pensions totalling $441,222 had been paid up to June last to 3,150 persons in British Columbia who had taken advantage of the scheme, according to statistics just compiled by the department of labor.

Of this amount the federal government paid one-half. British Columbia's pensioners comprised 22 per cent. of the population of that province over 70 years of age. The average monthly pension was $17.47, the pensioners being divided as 1,871 males and 1,279 females.

Opportunities in Peace River

Lord Lovat Finds That British Settlers Are Doing Well in North Country

"We met several of the British families who were settled at various points throughout the Peace country under the 3,000 farms scheme, and without exception, all these people are doing well, and are more than satisfied with their venture."

"Many of these men were miners, and few of them had any previous farming experience, but they are making good, and their experience shows clearly that given the will to succeed, lack of experience is no bar to success."

Lord Lovat found that over 3,000 homesteaders and settlers have gone into the Peace district this year, and everywhere there prevails a spirit of optimism for the future.

New Plane Tested

Demonstration At Los Angeles Proves Automatic Landing Feasible

Los Angeles. — A tiny plane constructed on a new vertical principle, made successful test flights here, demonstrating, observers said, that an aircraft can make an automatic landing.

Merle P. Kelley, who piloted the plane, was said to have taken the craft from the ground on 8 1/2 seconds, soared sharply upward, cruised at 100 miles an hour and then landed with both hands afloat.

The new principle was described by A. A. Merrill, inventor, as tilting the wings, which are a single unit, in relation to the speed in the cockpit.

The plane has a short fuselage and very little tail. In its construction the inventor was assisted by Dr. Clark Millikan, son of Dr. R. A. Millikan, Dr. Harry Bateman and Dr. A. L. Klein, all of the California Institute of Technology.

U.S. Building De Luxe 'Planes

MOST OF BRITISH HARVESTERS ARE MAKING GOOD

Winnipeg. — "We are just finding out the slackers, that's all, and I am quite confident that the majority of the men are making good," declared Hon. Robert Forke, Minister of Immigration, following a conference regarding British harvesters, which he had with Thomas Kelley.

About six hundred have been sent back to England, Mr. Forke continued, and possibly two hundred more will go back as having failed to make good; but that left something like eight thousand British harvesters in the western fields, who were not being hindered because they were too busy working.

He had talked with the physician who had examined 200 of the men sent on their way home and only one out of the lot had been really physically unfit, and he was subject to epileptic fits. The others could have worked had they not lacked the will.

"There is plenty of work," said Mr. Forke, mentioning that 1,500 men had been wanted at Regina this morning. He had himself come back all the way from Ottawa to see that the five British harvesters on his own farm got a good start. He thought the farmers who cut the wages of British harvesters because of inexperience, are a little shabby, at the same time he agreed that men new to the work were bound to be inferior to experienced hands.

The minister warmly praised the work of Mr. Kelley in handling affairs at the immigration sheds under most trying circumstances. "No one could have done it better," he said.

All physically unfit British harvesters will be returned to the Old Country, Mr. Forke asserted, regardless of their desire about remaining here.

A non-political commission for the supervising of British immigration is not held to be a probability by the Minister of Immigration.

"I do not foresee any definite changes which would relegate the immigration question to a non-political field," he said. "It is likely that it will continue to be in the hands of whatever government happens to be in power."

To Aid Non-Agrarians

Reduced Fares Arranged For Families Of Settlers Not Employed On Land

Ottawa. — Details of the extension of the assisted passage scheme to the wives and children of British settlers not employed on the land in Canada have been announced at the department of immigration. Assisted passages were formerly only given families of those who settled on the land.

A reduced steamship fare of $18.25 has been arranged through the co-operation of the British and Canadian Governments for the wives and children of those who were satisfactorily settled in Canada on June 6, of this year. Children under 16 years of age will be free. The Canadian Colonist railway fare to the destination is the only added charge.

The arrangement has been made in order to implement a recommendation of the agriculture and colonization committee made on June 5 last.

In order to avail himself of the reduced rates for his family the settler need only establish that he is successfully established in Canada and has a reasonable prospect of being able to support them.

"Just as soon as ever I get back to England, I will plunge right into the political fight.
